How to Track the Wildfires Raging Across the Western U.S. Online

By ROB DOZIER
JULY 30, 2018 • 6:25 PM

Firefighters douse a hot spot near various homes as the Carr fire continues to burn near Redding, California, on Saturday.

Josh Edelson/Getty Images
The Fire, Weather & Avalanche Center is a non-profit organization that compiles information about natural disasters happening in the western half of the U.S. It provides services to local media and emergency services organizations to predict how weather patterns and other factors could affect how much a wildfire could grow and how safe an area is. Here is a link to a useful interactive map from the group.

Of course, California isn’t the only part of the country where wildfires are causing destruction. There are approximately 60 wildfires across the country that are not currently contained, from Florida to Alaska. You can find more information about the wildfires that are currently happening in your state:

Alaska

Arizona

Colorado
How to track the wildfires happening in California and elsewhere.

Florida
Idaho
Montana
Nevada
New Mexico
Oklahoma
Oregon
Utah
Washington
Wyoming

Tweet Share Comment

California Disasters Wildfires

Taboola Feed

New York to Investigate Allegations of Tenant Harassment by Kushner...

Ceaseless construction made living in the building unbearable, a lawsuit claims.
How to track the wildfires happening in California and elsewhere.